But! I think of games as one of the tools I have received in my life. I can complete something. I can release a quantity of energy. Some of these tools are useful - this way or that - but others can be ruined without being used. At the same time, they are an important part of my life.

In this sense, it will not be easy for me to stop working as a freelancer.

However, it has not become the only thing I think about.
